

Languages with groups of four participants:

Lesson 1:

1. Producing the draft

- A & B separately designs a complete lesson on the same text

Send to all group members by Sunday, October 25

- C each provides input on both drafts

Send to all group members by Sunday, November 8

- D reviews all of the comments, finalizes the draft and sends it to UW Madison by Sunday, November 22

2. UW-Madison sends feedback to all group members by December 13

3. Teacher D revises the draft; sends the final lesson plan to everyone (including UC Berkeley and UW Madison)* by January 10. Then, D teaches the lesson and video-tape the class in the week of Feb 1

4. Teacher D sends the video to everyone by Feb 14

5. Teachers C write reflections on how the lesson goes and send it to everyone by Feb 28.

Lesson 2:

1. Producing the draft

- C & D separately designs a complete lesson on the same text

Send to everyone by Sunday, March 27

- A each provide input on both drafts

Send to everyone by Sunday, April 10

- B reviews all of the comments, finalizes the draft and sends it to UW-Madison by Sunday, April 24

2. UW-Madison sends feedback to all group members by Sunday, May 15

3. Teacher B revises the draft; sends the final lesson plan to everyone (including UC Berkeley and UW Madison) by May 30.

Languages with groups of 2 participants (only A & B)

1. Producing the draft

- A & B separately designs a complete lesson on the same text

Send to each other by Sunday, October 25

- A & B each comments on each other's draft

Send to each other by Sunday, November 8

- A finalizes the draft and sends it to UW Madison by Sunday, November 22

2. UW-Madison sends feedback to all group members by December 13

3. Teacher B revises the draft; sends the final lesson plan to everyone (including UC Berkeley and UW Madison)* by January 10. Then, B teaches the lesson and video-tape the class in the week of Feb 1

4. Teacher B sends the video to everyone by Feb 14

5. Teachers A write reflections on how the lesson goes and send it to everyone